

"I have known Reva for almost 10 years and consider her an outstanding HR professional in every sense of the term. She has had a long experience, across Industry segments, on both the Management Development and Industrial Relations fronts and she is at ease navigating between the two components. She is a qualified coach and has always considered the HR function as a business partner and solutions provider. She always keeps the overall business strategy in mind and enmeshes her advise within the context of strategy and practicality of execution. She is an excellent trainer and empathises with people's aspirations and is able to guide and counsel them in a non threatening and helpful manner with very good results. She is innovative in her approach and I would strongly recommend her as an HR advisor be it in selection, training, organisation development, coaching or IR advisory fields."
